Conclusion

Overall, growth in Indian infrastructure and manufacturing sector has caused an increase in demand for metals. Increased infrastructure spend is expected to contribute 25-30% of metal demand in the next decade. Production for steel and iron has seen steady growth due to increasing urbanisation. Capital inflow due to Steel PLI Schemes are expected to generate an investment of ~INR 30,000 Cr. Moreover, Sustainability controls like 'Metal Scrapping Policy' and 'Steel Quality Control' may contribute to increased efficiency in the sector. Also, government initiatives like Production Linked Incentives (PLI) have driven more demand for metals from manufacturing sectors. As metals are becoming more crucial for India's economic prosperity, investors seeking to gain from growing Indian metal industry may invest in Nifty Metal Index.
